This year's performance of Bending Towards the Light...a Jazz Nativity will offer a special twist. As is the tradition each year, three "star" kings will present the gift of their talent. Joining them this year will be some very special guests. The theme of this year's production will be "A Family Affair!" Past guests, tap dancing twin brothers Jaden and Ellis Foreman, will return. Alto saxophonist Will Anderson will be joined by his twin brother, Peter Anderson, also on saxophone. And past years' "Quing" and trumpeter Ingrid Jensen takes the stage with her sister, saxophonist Christine Jensen. With additional music and lyrics by Dave and Iola Brubeck, Bob Kindred, Henry Timm, the production is under the direction of Beth Ann Kennedy. In years past, many of the jazz world's greatest have appeared in the show including Dave Brubeck, Tito Puente, Lionel Hampton, Clark Terry, Al Grey, Jon Faddis, Phil Woods, Jon Hendricks, Paquito D'Rivera, Houston Person, Stanley Turrentine, Cándido Camero; the tap-dancing Kings: Honey Coles, Harold Nicholas, and Jimmy Slyde.

Of past renditions, the critics have said:

By the end of "The Jazz Nativity" you know you've been through something wonderful...a stirring celebration of Christmas! - Dr. Billy Taylor, CBS Sunday Morning

Brilliant, infectious music roars from an all-star band...a spell-binding production! - New York Amsterdam News

The memory of this extraordinary performance will keep Christmas in your heart forever! - Alison Steele, City Guide New York

Anne Phillips' career has covered almost every area of the music business. In addition to recording several solo albums, from the classic Born To Be Blue, to her most recent release, Ballet Time on which she sings with such old friends as Dave Brubeck and Marian McPartland, she has worked as a singer, choral arranger and conductor with many of the music world's leading artists and is widely known in the industry as the writer/arranger/producer of many national commercials. Through her not-for-profit organization, Kindred Spirits, her Children's Jazz Choirs have been instrumental in introducing inner-city children to the Great American Songbook.

In order to introduce today's children to the Great American Songbook, Anne and Bob Kindred began Children's Jazz Choirs through their not-for-profit organization, Kindred Spirits. Her musical celebration of environmental awareness, "What Are We Doing To Our World?" was co-produced by Chelsea Opera and Kindred Spirits this year, and will have its next performance in the Duke University Chapel. Other works include "Damn Everything But The Circus," a full musical written with playwright Stephanie Braxton with music and lyrics Anne Phillips, "The Great Grey Ghost of Old Spook Lane," a children's musical published by Samuel French, a song cycle "An Alaskan Trilogy," a setting of poems by Alaskan poet Phoebe Newman, and "Tempo Fuori del Tempo" written with librettist Marilyn Scott Murphy and presented by the Remarkable Theater Brigade at Weill Recital Hall at Carnegie Hall as a part of an evening of "Opera Shorts." Two more short operas with libretti by Robert F. Benjamin were recently performed at Opera America and made possible in part by a grant from the New York Women Composers. Visiting Artist at North Carolina State University is also on her schedule for 2018.

Chelsea Opera is a professional company presenting fully staged operas with chamber orchestra.

The company provides a nationally recognized venue for professional singers to advance their careers while making opera affordable and accessible to a broad spectrum of the community. The fine acoustics of the space provide excellent hearing, and its intimacy allows the audience to feel involved in the opera's story. Of Chelsea Opera's sustainability, Anthony Tommasini of The New York Times noted in June 2009: "With American opera companies large and small struggling financially and a few going under, [Chelsea Opera is] a patch of encouraging news..." Following its production of Aaron Copland's The Tender Land last year celebrating the opera's 60th anniversary, writer Jon Sobel declared that Chelsea Opera "certainly ranks as one of the country's preeminent 'small' opera companies."

Formed in 2004 by singers, Lynne Hayden-Findlay and Leonarda Priore, Chelsea Opera was launched with an all-volunteer production of Suor Angelica. Initially, Ms. Priore and Ms. Hayden-Findlay had only intended to produce this one opera. However, artist and audience response was so compelling that they agreed to move forward, incorporating the company and obtaining their IRS non-profit designation in a record eight days. They have since produced an extensive range of standard repertory and contemporary operas, garnering critical acclaim at each outing. Despite its size, Chelsea Opera is the recipient of two grants from the National Endowment for the Arts – Artworks program, most recently for its production of Tom Cipullo's Glory Denied.

Chelsea Opera has received funding from The Barbara Bell Cumming Foundation, The Tow Foundation, The Amphion Foundation, the H.O. Peet Foundation, the NYU Community Fund, the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs, the New York State Council on the Arts (NYSCA), and the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA). In-kind support has been provided by JetBlue Airways, the official airline of Chelsea Opera.
