Of past renditions, the critics have said:

Brilliant, infectious music roars from an all-star band...a spell-binding production! - New York Amsterdam News

The memory of this extraordinary performance will keep Christmas in your heart forever! - Alison Steele, City Guide New York

Anne Phillips' career has covered almost every area of the music business. In addition to recording several solo albums, from the classic Born To Be Blue, to her most recent release, Ballet Time on which she sings with such old friends as Dave Brubeck and Marian McPartland, she has worked as a singer, choral arranger and conductor with many of the music world's leading artists and is widely known in the industry as the writer/arranger/producer of many national commercials. Through her not-for-profit organization, Kindred Spirits, her Children's Jazz Choirs have been instrumental in introducing inner-city children to the Great American Songbook.

In the classical arena, Ms. Phillips' ten-minute opera Tempo Fuori del Tempo was presented at Weill Recital Hall as a part of an evening of Opera Shorts, another short opera Plots was performed at Opera America in a concert by the opera company Aviva Players and her Easter Cantata, Sing, For The Lord Has Risen, was presented in concert by the Remarkable Theater Brigade at Jan Hus Church. Her song cycle An Alaskan Trilogy, a setting of three poems by Alaskan poet, Phoebe Newman, was performed at the CUNY Graduate Center in collaboration with the National Association of Teachers of Singing. More of her songs were recorded by soprano Monica Harte on the classical label MSR Records. Several of her compositions were featured by Chelsea Opera on a song concert, Musical Portraits, in 2014. This year, Chelsea Opera presented a program of Phillips' short operas about "aging with grace, courage, and humor," entitled That "Certain Age."

Chelsea Opera is a professional company presenting fully staged operas with chamber orchestra. The company provides a nationally recognized venue for professional singers to advance their careers while making opera affordable and accessible to a broad spectrum of the community. The fine acoustics of the space provide excellent hearing, and its intimacy allows the audience to feel involved in the opera's story. Of Chelsea Opera's sustainability, Anthony Tommasini of The New York Times noted in June 2009: "With American opera companies large and small struggling financially and a few going under, [Chelsea Opera is] a patch of encouraging news..." Following its production of Aaron Copland's The Tender Land last year celebrating the opera's 60th anniversary, writer Jon Sobel declared that Chelsea Opera "certainly ranks as one of the country's preeminent 'small' opera companies."

Formed in 2004 by singers, Lynne Hayden-Findlay and Leonarda Priore, Chelsea Opera was launched with an all-volunteer production of Suor Angelica. Initially, Ms. Priore and Ms. Hayden-Findlay had only intended to produce this one opera. However, artist and audience response was so compelling that they agreed to move forward, incorporating the company and obtaining their IRS non-profit designation in a record eight days. They have since produced an extensive range of standard repertory and contemporary operas, garnering critical acclaim at each outing. Despite its size, Chelsea Opera is the recipient of two grants from the National Endowment for the Arts – Artworks program, most recently for its production of Tom Cipullo's Glory Denied.

Chelsea Opera has received funding from The Barbara Bell Cumming Foundation, The Tow Foundation, The Amphion Foundation, the H.O. Peet Foundation, the NYU Community Fund, the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs, the New York State Council on the Arts (NYSCA), and the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA). In-kind support has been provided by JetBlue Airways, the official airline of Chelsea Opera.
